ILLINOIS COLLEGE EXPOSITION REGULATIONS

(Adapted from IACAC Statement of Practices and Courtesies)

1. Representatives should arrive on time for a program and remain until the end.
2. Promotional and informational materials should be in good taste. Gifts, trinkets (i.e. pencils, keychains, candy, etc.), and monetary incentives are prohibited.
3. The use of audio-visual equipment or display materials should be left to the discretion of the host and stated in the invitation. When audio-visual or display materials are permitted, and shared facilities are used, they should not intrude upon another institution's presentation.
4. Conversations with students and parents are to be conducted in a professional manner. Representatives are asked to remain behind or on the side of tables, not in the aisles.
5. Institutions will be expected to notify the program sponsor if a representative other than a professional staff member or a faculty member will be attending the scheduled program.
6. It is the responsibility of hosts and representatives to be cognizant of both the "IACAC Statement of Practices and Courtesies" and "Statement of Principles of Good Practice for Members of the National Association for College Admission Counseling."
7. The primary responsibility of college representatives at ICE programs is to speak with students and parents about their individual institutions. College representatives have no obligation or responsibility to speak with individuals who may be trying to promote educational products or services.
